Supplements for Whole Pet Wellness

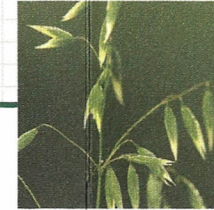

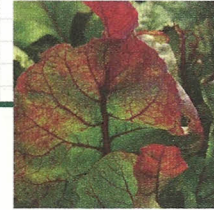

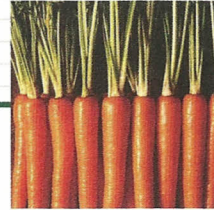

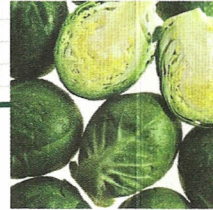

Excellence in Complementary Nutrition

WHOLE FOOD NUTRIENT SOLUTIONS

Standard Process supplements are made from whole food and other ingredients to support your pet's individual nutritional needs.*

What is a whole food supplement?

A whole food supplement is a complex formula of targeted ingredients that may include whole food ingredients, whole food concentrates, animal tissue extracts and concentrates, botanicals, whole food isolates, and synthetic ingredients.

We regularly grow 60 percent of the plant ingredients used in our formulas on our certified organic farm in Palmyra, Wisconsin. Using our own organic crops allows us to control the quality of these ingredients from seed to supplement.

For the items we can't grow, we have a rigorous system of supplier auditing and validation. All raw animal tissues are obtained exclusively from facilities inspected by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Build a Foundation

The ingredients in Canine and Feline Whole Body Support are gently dried to preserve their nutritional value. The combination of these foods, not just a single component, provides a variety of nutrients your pet needs to build a nutritional foundation and maintain optimal health.*

Whole Body Support

- » An excellent nutritional foundation
- » General support for all body systems
- » Appropriate to give daily
- » Suitable for use with all other Veterinary Formulas™*

Standard Process offers a full line of Veterinary Formulas to help meet your pet's specific nutritional requirements. Ask your veterinarian which products are best for your pet.

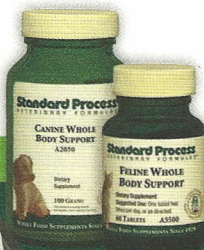

Dogs and cats have individual nutritional needs beyond what their regular diet provides, based on their age, activity level, and health status. The key to their optimal health is a diet rich in a variety of complex nutrients.

Standard Process supplements can provide your pet with essential nutritional complexity by providing whole food-based nutrients that support optimal body function.*
